

PREFACE

OCEAN—NUCLEAR ENERGY

This group of papers (Ocean—Nuclear Energy) was selected from the many fine papers at the topical meeting (The Ocean, Nuclear Energy and Man) held in Miami last year. Although all are related to the ocean, the content spans a wide range from strictly nuclear to those involving biology, ecology, and siting. This represents a departure from the intensive treatment of well defined areas of previous special groups. I hope that both the generalized treatment and the timeliness of the topic will provide additional interest for this approach.

The Editor